

June 2011

Dear opusarc,

Great thanks to all of you who came to the launch of the Jane Hollister Wheelwright lecture series. Bringing attention to the marvelous legacies left to us by pioneering women is an important part of the work that inspires me and a number of our Board members. In this spirit I am so very excited for the These Women! conference that Lori Pye and the ICC are hosting and have invited Opus to support. Come join us!

The Ancestors Speak: Quote from the Archive

"Conscious femininity, you see, is not just a blissed-out state. It involves an awareness of the energy of the rock and the love in the bird, the tree, the sunset. An awareness of the harmony of all things, an awareness of living in the world soul. The intuition, the attunement of the body is concentrated, alive. The capacity to be open and to receive is an alert state. You feel the harmony of the whole universe in the marrow of your bones."

An extraordinary weekend of dialogue, exploration, and dynamic conversation with these seminal voices whose life work shaped and expanded the evolution of Depth, Archetypal, and Jungian Psychology.

There is still time to register for this historic event!

Join us for an extraordinary weekend of dialogue, exploration, and dynamic conversation with the seminal voices whose life work shaped and expanded the evolution of Depth, Archetypal, and Jungian psychology: Pat Berry, Lyn Cowan, Christine Downing, Nor Hall, Ginette Paris, Hendrika de Vries, Mary Watkins, and Marion Woodman.

New Mythos in the World: Jacquelyn Jackson's Blog

"Our world is in dire need of a more expansive and embodied archetypal vision of aging female authority and power." Jacquelyn has brought the questions and perspectives of female authority into the world through her magnificent blog 'Learning to Be Female' which incorporates the wisdom she gathered from the manuscript collections of Marion Woodman, Chris Downing and Katie Sanford, accessed here at Opus! Check out her blog here.

You can also read her research essay on our website through this link.
